In its January 7, 2016 Order Re Motions In Limine Briefing, the Court “recognize[d] that this order provides more than twice the number of pages the government was anticipating for motions in limine, and that the parties may require additional time to file opposition briefs.” Order at 3. Observing that “this case is already on a tight schedule,” the Court advised that it “is amenable to a short extension in the briefing schedule if agreed to by the parties, as long as the extension is accompanied by a continuance in the pretrial conference and trial dates.” Id. at 4.

AMENDED STIP. TO EXTEND TIME FOR MOTIONS IN LIMINE BRIEFING & TO CONTINUE PRETRIAL CONFERENCE AND TRIAL DATE; [PROPOSED] ORDER
CR 14-00175 TEH

The parties have agreed to an additional two weeks, or twice the originally allotted time, to respond to motions in limine (docket numbers 236 and 237), bringing the response filing date to February 8, 2016, and the reply filing date to February 22, 2016. Per the Court's Order, the parties have agreed to continue the pretrial conference and the trial a corresponding two weeks, to March 7 and March 22, 2016, respectively.

In the event that PG&E files additional motions, the government may request additional time to respond.

SO STIPULATED.
